"TRADE-AT-HOME" WEEK IS COMING

NEXT COMMUNITY EVENT UNDER WAY.

MARCH FOURTH TO NINTH

Everybody Will Be Asked To Buy Everything They Can At Home On This Occasion.

Plans are materializing rapidly for the next community event, to be known as "Trade-at-Home" week, beginning Monday, March 4th, and ending when the curtain drops, Saturday night, March 9th.

This will be the sixth one of the community events that have been given in Huntington Beach, beginning last September, and all have been very successful.

It appears rather strange that it should be necessary to ask the citizens of any community to do their trading with the merchants who maintain established places of business in that community. However, it is a fact that it is necessary to do so, not only in Huntington Beach, but in most of the small cities and towns contiguous to the metropolitan centers of population.

The merchants of this city are here because a portion of the population is patronizing them. There are some who do very little, if any, trading in Huntington Beach. Suppose that all of the heads of families, or others requiring supplies, would transfer their business to foreign merchants? The result would be that practically all of the business houses would be closed in a few weeks, and does anyone doubt that every lot or parcel of property in Huntington Beach would be largely depreciated in value in the event of such a collapse of the business center? Of course, no one imagines that anything like this is going to happen in Huntington Beach, because there are enough residents who will patronize the home merchants to prevent any such a disaster, but it is a possibility.

The life of any town is the business center, and that section is indisputable evidence of the loyalty of the citizenship of the community.

The only way that property values will ever advance in Huntington Beach will be through the enlargement of the business district, and the only way there can be any expansion there is for the people of the community to patronize the merchants. Therefore, every citizen of the community should have a personal interest in the success of every home merchant who is progressive and honest enough to be successful and a strong factor in the upbuilding of the community. This question, however, is a big one, and, like all others, has two sides, and it is not always the fault of the people of a community that they do not trade at home. If the home merchant is indifferent as to whether people visit his store, or of questionable integrity, or does not carry sufficient stock, it would be unreasonable to suppose that a majority of the inhabitants of the community would find it congenial or profitable to trade at his place of business.

There is a certain newspaper publisher in Southern California, who has been in the same town for many years. His equipment is composed largely of relics of a preceding generation, and he does all of the work himself, and says he has all the business he can take care of, although he could perhaps double or treble his business should new machinery be installed and help employed to properly transact the business that belongs in the community.

The same rule applies to merchants. If they expect to secure the business that belongs in the community, they must be prepared to offer the buyers prices, service and stock that will warrant their patronage; otherwise it will never come to them.

Business in Huntington Beach is considerably better this winter than for some time past, which is the best of evidence that the campaign inaugurated last September by the business interests of the city is bearing fruit, and buyers have found that the merchants are offering prices and service that make it profitable for them to trade at home.

It is hoped that everyone will assist in making the "Trade-at-Home" week the success that it should be.

YOU MUST REGISTER IF YOU WANT TO VOTE.

BOOKS WILL CLOSE ON MARCH EIGHTH.

There will be a large number of citizens that will not be able to vote at the approaching city election unless they qualify for that privilege by visiting one of the registration clerks.

Wednesday morning, 430 had registered, which is perhaps about 60 per cent of the citizens who should be enrolled as voters in the city of Huntington Beach.

There appears to be but little excuse for not registering, as there are five deputies who are making registrations: R. L. Obarr, at his drug store; Judge C. W. Warner, at his office; Geo. O. Franklin and Ned N. Brown, at their barber shop, and S. E. Hearn, at his residence, at 253 Twelfth street. For those who desire to register at their homes, Mr. Hearn accommodates them by calling.

Wednesday, Mr. Hearn had registered 233, which, he states, are about evenly divided politically, with more than the usual number of Prohibitionists.

Judge Warner had accommodated an even 100, with the Republicans slightly in the lead, although he kept no check as to the political affiliations.

There were 41 names on the book at Obarr's Drug Store, being 29 Republicans, 11 Democrats and 1 Prohibitionist.

There are two books at Franklin & Brown's place. The one in the possession of Mr. Franklin showed 40 registrations, of which 22 were designated as Republicans, 9 as Democrats, 5 as Socialists and 4 declined to state.

Mr. Brown had registered but 16, but, strange to say, there was a preponderance of Democrats on the list, as 7 of the number were of that faith, as against 6 Republicans, 1 Prohibitionist and 2 declined to state.

P. T. A. WILL MEET TUESDAY EVENING.

MISS BARBER OF LOS ANGELES WILL SPEAK.

The regular monthly meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association will be held in the Grammar school auditorium next Tuesday evening, February 19th, and the exercises will begin promptly at 7:30.

The address of the evening will be given by Miss Barber, a kindergarten director of Los Angeles, and, as she will return on the 8:33 car, she will start talking at half past seven.

Miss Price and Miss Pickrell will be present with their kindergarten class and take part in the program.

The meetings of the association have been interesting and well attended so far this season, and the indications are that there will be a big attendance Tuesday night. The public is cordially invited.

RETURNS FROM EASTERN BUSINESS TRIP.

T. B. TALBERT ARRIVED FROM EAST MONDAY.

T. B. Talbert, chairman of the Board of Supervisors and general manager of the Pacific Oilcloth Co., returned to Huntington Beach Monday from an extended eastern business trip, being absent one month.

Mr. Talbert spent most of his time in Washington, D. C.; Philadelphia; New York, and Trenton, N. J., and on his return trip visited with his sisters, Mrs. Mary Piper, of Deshler, O., and Mrs. Levina Miller, of Mt. Pulaski, Ill. He states that the war has badly disorganized business conditions in the east; much more so than in California.

HAVE YOU EVER RESIDED IN IOWA?

IF SO, YOU ARE INVITED TO THE PICNIC.

Former residents of Iowa now in Southern California will gather in Lincoln (Eastlake) Park, Friday, February 22nd, to enjoy the usual annual picnic. If the weather should be inclement, the picnic will occur Saturday, March 2nd.

The program will begin at 2 o'clock, and the college reunions will be at 3 o'clock. Counties will be arranged as in the map of the state, and there will be seats in each county.

SPECIAL MEETING OF CHAMBER OF COM.

TRADE-AT-HOME WEEK TO BE MARCH 4 TO 9.

HARBOR BONDS ENDORSED

Will Ask Trustees to Build Boat Landing at End of Pier; School Celebration to be Held in April.

There was a special meeting of the Huntington Beach Chamber of Commerce in the library building Friday night of last week, and several important matters were discussed.

Wm. C. O'Connor, chairman of the committee having charge of the "Trade-at-Home" week, rendered an extended oral report, and the committee was continued, with authority to complete arrangements for the next community event, now scheduled for the week of March 4th to 9th, inclusive.

One of the features of the "Trade-at-Home" week, that the committee is considering, is a baby show, and have halftones published in the News, showing all the little ones entering the contest.

During this week, every citizen will be asked to make all of their purchases from Huntington Beach merchants, when it is possible to do so.

School Celebration Discussed.

Harold H. Campbell, principal of the Grammar school, was asked to say something about the proposed school celebration, and stated that he was inclined to think that the best time would be about April 15th, which was about as early as it could be given, and, if too late in the term, the schools would be so busy that it would interfere with the work. As to the place for holding the affair, he said that, while the High school would be neutral ground, he believed the Grammar school would be the best place in some respects, as the building was one of the finest to be found anywhere, and was the largest one of the ten schools included in the district that would take part in the celebration.

Mr. Campbell said some of the teachers would fix up their rooms for the occasion, and, if it was decided to hold school part of the time, the public could visit the rooms. He also cited the fact that there was no other kindergarten school in the district, which might be an attraction.

Judge Copeland said that Friday and Saturday would probably be the best days for the school community event, and thought there should be one field day, and a point system, so that it would be fair to all schools in the district.

On motion of Mr. O'Connor, seconded by City Attorney Alex. P. Nelson, the chair was directed to appoint a committee to have charge of the April event, and V. B. Brown, principal of the High school; Trustee Joseph Vavra, and H. O. Ensign were named. Mr. Ensign is principal of the Ocean View school.

F. H. McElfresh thought it would be well to have some good speakers, and Dr. Wilson suggested that a good program be arranged.

Judge Copeland reported for the committee that attended the meeting of the Fairview Farms Improvement Association.

Mr. Nelson moved that a committee of three be appointed to meet with a committee from Fairview Farms at the meeting of the supervisors, Tuesday, which was seconded by G. S. Bergey, and carried. The matter was referred to the committee now having charge of the road to the Newport mesa.

Mr. McElfresh mentioned the matter of gardening, in conjunction with the school work, and Mr. Campbell said that the Grammar school had taken up the matter of war gardens, and considerable attention would be given the work.

Plenty of Water, But No Boats.

W. H. Taylor said that Huntington Beach had just as much water as any other beach town, but he regretted to say that it was a boatless town. He said he noticed the matter of a boat landing at the pier had been taken up by the city trustees, and he thought the question was one of great importance to the community, and should be taken up by the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Taylor did not think the expense of constructing a boat landing would be as great as some imagined. Such an improvement, he said, would bring a large number of visitors to Huntington Beach.

On motion of Mr. Nelson, the chair was directed to appoint a committee of three to take the matter up with the city trustees, and Mr. Taylor, Mr. McElfresh and Mr. Nelson were designated.

Mr. O'Connor called attention to the fact that the question of voting bonds for the improvement of Newport harbor would soon be up for discussion, and he thought it was a question of vital importance to everybody in Huntington Beach.

Dr. Wilson suggested that the Chamber go on record and work for the success of the bonds, and, on motion of Mr. Nelson, seconded by Mr. McElfresh, the bonds were endorsed, and the following committee appointed to work for the success of the bonds: Mr. Nelson, Mr. O'Connor, Mr. French, Mr. McElfresh and Judge Copeland.

President French was absent, and Dr. Wilson occupied the chair.

TEN YEARS AGO

The Following Items Appeared in the Huntington Beach News of Feb. 14th, 1908.

Raymond Rosenberger, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Rosenberger, had his collarbone fractured while wrestling with a playmate at school Monday morning. While the injury is not serious, it will keep him out of school for several days.

The Huntington Inn is getting some of the tourist travel this year, the registrations this week including visitors from Kentucky, Alabama, New York and Utah.

The Orange county basketball championship is in dispute. Saturday, the Orange High school defeated the Huntington Beach team at Santa Ana, and now claims the championship, notwithstanding the fact that Huntington Beach has won four games in the regular series. Orange claims the title on a technicality, and the case will be appealed. Orange refuses to play again or to submit the case to arbitration, although they admit that an injustice has been done the Huntington Beach boys. The game was spectacular, and one of the fastest ever played in the county, the first half resulting in a score of 28 to 11, in favor of Orange, and the second 38 to 26, favorable to the home team. The Orange team started off with a rush, completely taking the home boys off their feet. When the smoke and dust had cleared away, it was found that the star center for Orange had passed the ball up to the basket 11 times. In the game he scored 27 points. For Huntington Beach, Boyden Hall played the best game, scoring 11 points. The lineup for Huntington Beach was: Newland and Blodget, forwards; Hall, center; Livingood and W. S. Thomson, guards.

Tom Talbert is being boomed for the Republican nomination for assemblyman, as the citizens of this section of the county feel that they are entitled to the office. However, Mr. Talbert has not yet consented to become a candidate for the job.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cowsert, Sunday morning, weighing 13 pounds, and Dr. Wilson states it is the largest baby ever born in Huntington Beach.

S. W. Price has returned from Wellsville, Utah, where he was called on account of the illness of his father. Mr. Price was glad to get back to Huntington Beach, and states that he found many persons who want literature about this city.

The following officers were installed by the I. O. O. F. lodge at the last meeting: F. E. Wilson, N. G.; Milo Reno, V. G.; E. H. Darling, Sec.; J. W. Shirley, Treas.; W. A. Patterson, R. S. N. G.; G. W. Wardwell, L. S. N. G.; Otto Lindner, R. S. V. G.; John Pope, L. S. V. G.; E. H. Bradbury, Warden; Geo. O. Franklin, Conductor; A. F. Swift, L. S. S.; W. D. Seely, R. S. S.

C. J. Gardner and family of Redlands arrived in Huntington Beach Wednesday and will improve their property on the mesa. They are at present stopping with Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Stearns, parents of Mrs. Gardner.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Howard and Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Blodget attended the Chautauqua county, New York, picnic at Eastlake Park last week. E. V. Hoag, formerly editor of the News, is president of the association.

DO NOT OVERLOOK PAYING INCOME TAX

DEPUTY IN SANTA ANA UNTIL MARCH 1.

TIME EXPIRES MARCH FIRST

Orange County Making Big Returns,. When Population Is Considered; Office Is Crowded Daily.

The way to get the real facts about the prosperity that exists in Orange county is to visit the office of Walter A. Cornelius, in the basement of the court house at Santa Ana, and watch the large number of persons that line up daily to pay the income tax that is required by the government to assist in carrying on the war.

Mr. Cornelius owns the Newport News, which he edited for several years prior to entering the office of Collector of Internal Revenue John P. Carter, three years ago. Mr. Cornelius is now an acknowledged expert in departmental work, and his services have become so valuable to the government that it is doubtful if he will ever again edit a weekly newspaper in Orange county.

Mr. Cornelius states that he is surprised at the unbounded prosperity that is indicated by the throngs of citizens that have visited his office each day since he arrived in Santa Ana, early in January. He says that Orange county is in the lead, according to population, in this internal revenue district, and, on this account, he will remain in Santa Ana up to March 1st to accommodate those who have been unable to visit him before that time, although he had intended to leave Wednesday.

Every married man whose income from all sources equaled or exceeded $2,000, and all single men who received more than $1,000 during the year 1917, must file a report with the collector prior to March 1st. The penalty for failing to make a return is a fine of not less than $20, and not more than $1,000, and 50 per cent is added to the tax due. For making a false return, the penalty is more severe, being a fine of $2,000, or one year in jail, or both, in the discretion of the court, and 100 per cent is added to the tax evaded.

There is no use of anyone taking any chances with the government, and the only thing to do is for those who have not already done so to visit Mr. Cornelius at once and tell him all about your income for the calendar year 1917. He is very obliging and will make out the form for you and fill out your check, if you have one with you, and all you have to do is to sign your name to the return sheet and check, which clears you for one year.

Everybody who is subject to the tax should gladly pay it, as the money is essential to carrying on the war.

EMPLOYEES OBEYING COMPANY'S RULES.

STOP AT TRACKS OVER WHICH NO TRAINS EVER RUN.

Although no trains have passed over the Southern Pacific tracks at the crossing of the Pacific Electric Railway Company's line, south of First street, for two years, the cars over the Santa Ana line stop at the crossing as regularly as the days come and go.

The car over the Santa Ana line is in charge of F. E. Bates, as motorman, and M. E. Thompson, conductor, and Mr. Bates stops his car at this particular crossing just as though there was an approaching train and awaits the signal from Mr. Thompson, who walks from the rear of the car and goes through the motion of looking for live trains over this dead track, but, seeing none, gives Mr. Bates the high sign, and the car passes over the rusty rails of this ancient section of roadbed.

There has been no traffic over this section of the Southern Pacific since the flood water broke through the sand spit, in January, 1916, washing out a big section of track, which has never been rebuilt.

This indicates how rigidly the company's rules are enforced, as there is not as much danger in running over this crossing without stopping as there is in passing over any country road on

NEW CLASS WILL START NEXT MONDAY.

BEN SCOVELL WILL SPEAK TUESDAY MORNING.

(By V. B. Brown.)

A new class will start Monday night in Shorthand under the instruction of Miss Miller. The program of special classes now is as follows:

Monday afternoon, at 2:20, Dressmaking.

Monday evening, 7:00, Spanish and Shorthand, Mechanical Drawing and Woodworking; 8:00, Typing.

Thursday, the same program is repeated. Our special classes are appreciated, as the enrollment shows.

Sergeant C. Rayner, a Kentuckian, who, with his four sons, enlisted with the Canadian forces, will speak to the High school on Tuesday, the 26th, at 10:45 o'clock. A delegation from here, Judge Copeland, Principal Harold H. Campbell of the Grammar school, Cecil McCoy, and Principal V. B. Brown of the High school, heard him at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon at Santa Ana on Wednesday of this week. They interviewed him and secured an appointment for this date. He has thrilling things to tell of the battlefield and the situation that we are facing. He is a wonderful speaker, with a message that burns into the hearts of his hearers. The Scottish kilts and some of the equipment of the field are worn by him. To his side is buckled a repeating pistol that he took from a German officer. The buses will run for the down-town people. Don't miss this opportunity.

Ben Scovell, a volunteer, rejected for physical reasons, but who has been at the front entertaining the soldiers in the camps and hospitals, will speak to the students at the High school next Tuesday, February 19th, at 10:45. He brings a message from the boys at the front, thrilling stories, war poems, details of camp life. A charge of ten cents will be made to help cover the expense of bringing this unusual message to the people of Huntington Beach. The bus will run from town, leaving the bank corner at 10:30. Tell your neighbor and come. At Long Beach, more than a thousand people were turned away because the church where Mr. Scovell spoke would not hold them. Your ten cents goes into a fund for a hospital "over there."

For some time, the "Cauldron," the High school annual, has been held up because many do not feel it advisable to spend $300 to $400 this year for a publication that cannot support itself and has no particular mission but to recount the events of the year at school and give a printed place to our outgoing class, our teams, etc. A questionnaire has been sent to other High schools to see what they are doing to meet the war emergency. The replies show that 17 schools have decided not to publish their annuals this year, and only 3 heard from, with enrollments of less than 200, are planning to publish. Several schools are undecided, because of the war needs. All of the schools deciding to give up their publications this year are turning the money into war relief. The School Board has left the matter to the Senior class, with the understanding that, if the "Cauldron" is not published this year, we shall take the money that the Board would put into that and buy a stereopticon, thus enabling the school to get sets of slides from the University, on current event topics; from the Los Angeles Visual Education Division; travel sets from the University, and sets of slides on industrial, agricultural and other educational subjects. The school has long needed the stereopticon, because it will enable us to bring special features in visual education before the school. Many of the students feel that it is our patriotic duty to conserve our funds and energy by turning them into channels that will help Uncle Sam in his time of need.

JOHN L. WYATT

Don't you remember Christmas morning, when you received those photographs and pictures of a like nature? They were nice and fresh looking then, but how are they now, or how will they look in about six months? Will they be as they were when you received them, or will they be all finger-marked, dusty, dog-eared and hopelessly ruined?

An inexpensive frame will preserve them nicely for you, and they will be as attractive years from now as they are today.

Rigdon's Studio, at 137 Main street, is showing an exceptional line of mouldings, including many of a moderate price, from which your selection may be made with all due regard for suitability in price and appearance.

There has also been received a new line of sheet pictures, in the better grade of work, sepias, hand-tinted, etc., and a clever line of comics that has just been published. These are the same pictures that you admire in the large art shops in the city, and are marked here at a considerable reduction from city prices.

WEEKLY GREETING.

Men are qualified for civil liberty in exact proportion to their disposition to put moral chains upon their own appetites. Society cannot exist unless a controlling power upon will and appetite be placed somewhere, and the less of it there is within the more of it there must be without.—Burke.

SOME CANDIDATES FOR GOVERNOR.

Strange to say, there is at the present time more activity in Democratic circles for the nomination for governor than there is in the ranks of the Republican party, notwithstanding the fact that the Democrats are in a hopeless minority in the state.

The Democratic gubernatorial clouds in the political horizon are all rising from the salubrious atmosphere of the Southland, as Thomas Lee Woolwine and Francis J. Heney, the two avowed aspirants, both reside in Los Angeles county.

Mr. Woolwine is district attorney for the county and Mr. Heney claims the suburb of Santa Monica as his legal residence. Mr. Heney has been special council for the Federal Trade Commission for some time, being at present engaged in examining the methods of the big packing companies of Chicago, which are attracting national attention.

If Mr. Woolwine continues in the race against Mr. Heney, he and his friends have less political judgment than they have been credited with. Of course, there is an element in the Democratic party opposed to Mr. Heney, because he was not born and reared by Democratic parentage and has not consistently voted the ticket since becoming of age. However, the elections for several years past have demonstrated the fact that there is little chance of electing a rock-ribbed party man to the high office of governor in California on that ticket.

In the event of Mr. Heney securing the nomination, he would stand an excellent chance of being elected, no matter who was nominated on the Republican ticket; there is no doubt about that. At this time there are but two candidates in the Republican arena, Governor Stephens and J. O. Hays, editor of the San Jose Mercury-Herald, and Mr. Heney would win in a walk over either of them. There are two other probable candidates for the Republican plum, James Rolph, Jr., mayor of San Francisco, and Friend W. Richardson, state treasurer of California, stronger men and greater vote getters than the Governor or Editor Hays. Especially is this true of Mr. Richardson.

The voters of the state at large know nothing of Mr. Woolwine, while Mr. Heney's name is familiar with every English speaking voter of the commonwealth; and there is not sufficient time for Mr. Woolwine to become well enough known to the voters throughout this great state to make him a factor in the Democratic marathon.

There is an unconfirmed report that Mr. Heney may make a bid for both the Republican and Democratic nominations, and, should his friends decide on such a course, it is not to be doubted that he will be a very formidable pretender for each of the major nominations this year.

HUNTINGTON BEACH UNION HIGH SCHOOL.

Student Body Notes.

(Miss Grace Foley, Reporter.)

Student Body activities are increasing every day along the line of organization and systematizing the different lines and branches of Student Body work. On Monday, at noon, there occurred a called meeting of the Advisory Board, at which time the matter of entertainment for the assemblies was discussed. It was decided that individual talent from the classes should be brought forth at these assemblies of entertainment, which shall occur one Thursday of each month. It was decided that a public speaker should be obtained for Lincoln's birthday, that also some musical home talent compose a part of the program for that day. Other issues were discussed, but no definite action taken.

On Wednesday, at 10:00 o'clock, Sgt. Forest B. Turner addressed the assembly regarding his experiences in army life. Cecil McCoy, president of the Student Body, officiated, and the assemblage bade Sgt. Turner welcome by singing a verse of the "Star Spangled Banner" and cheering loudly for him. All who were students at H. B. H. S. last year particularly enjoyed the quartet of last year's fame, Gladys Bollon, Irene Engle, Jack Given and Sgt. Turner, who sang the same song, "Rose of My Heart," (by Sohr), as they sang at the Forensic last May. At the conclusion of his splendid talk, Sgt. Turner sang most expressively, "Keep the Home Fires Burning," and Mr. McCoy added stirring words as to our appreciation of the ambition and splendid ideals, combined with patriotism to the cause of Democracy and Liberty, which Sgt. Turner has manifested since he left our school, a graduate of '17. "America" was sung in conclusion to one of the finest assemblies of the year.

The Girls' League is not inactive by any means. A meeting was held on Friday, February 1st, when the proposition of an afternoon affair for the mothers of all in the school was discussed favorably, and a motion was made to the effect that the president appoint a committee to take the affair in hand. Fern Irwin was made chairman of the finance committee and Glenna Wright of the entertainment committee. It was moved, seconded and carried that these committees consult with the faculty and Board as to plans for the same.

The boys are effecting an organization for the boys of the school, and have taken in hand plans for a banquet for the fathers in the near future.

The Girls' League held a meeting on Monday, the chief business being that relative to the Mothers' Reception, to be tendered the mothers of all High school students on the afternoon of March 1st, from two to four. Reports of committees were heard and accepted. Committees for refreshments, reception, decorating and serving were appointed and read. The matter of organizing a Joan of Arc Club for the girls, by which means the girls could materially assist in the saving of funds and the buying of war stamps. No definite action was taken, but the Girls' League is ready to respond favorably when the opportunity affords.

On Tuesday, February 12th, a patriotic assembly was held under the auspices of the Student Body. Miss Ritchie introduced the speaker of the day as Miss Bemis, of the Intermediate school in Santa Ana, who is now active in the organization of the Junior Red Cross. Miss Bemis spoke along the line of the Junior Red Cross work. She stated that President Wilson contends that such a worthy cause should be brought before the children of the United States, as their influence counts for much on the public at large. President Wilson says that every child or minor should belong to the Junior Red Cross, for, even though he be unable to support it financially, he can lend his moral support. Miss Bemis' address brought out clearly the individual responsibility devolved upon every American, young or old. The Girls' Glee Club rendered very impressively "Our Own Beloved America." The matter of organizing such a Junior Red Cross in the High school was taken up by Mr. Brown. The faculty and students alike expressed themselves favorably upon the subject.

Mr. McCoy called for a motion. Unanimously moved and carried to so organize. The meeting was adjourned by singing the "Star Spangled Banner."

Fathers' Night, tonight, the 15th. Invitation has been given to all the fathers of the district, who have boys or girls in the High school. The boys have planned a good time for those who attend. They are particularly anxious to have a good number from the district represented.

H. B. G. S. has good prospects for a track team this year. According to size, it will be almost as good as last year.

I congratulate the 8th grade girls and their teacher for their cooking. The girls can cook as well as some women I know.

(Bennie Page.)

The boys of the 7th, 7th-8th, made a good showing against the 8th grade boys Monday. The first event, the 880-yd. run, was won by Geo. Smith of the 7th-8th room, the time being 2:25. This is better time than that made by Jerome Hodge last year. His time was 2:30. The 50-yd. dash was won by the 8th grade boys. We surprised ourselves by running it in 6 seconds flat. The 100-yd. dash was also made in good time. Time, 11 3-5 .

WE ARE SELLING

More Goodyear tires as our customers learn we carry them in stock.

We don't have to blow our friends up with hot air to make them know the wearing quality of a Goodyear tire. We don't have to tell about the poor quality of some tires to impress upon them the super-quality of a Goodyear tire.

Every motorist knows the value of a Goodyear tire, and we expect them to come in and get their particular size and kind whenever they need them. There are no ifs and ands about a Goodyear tire. They talk for themselves. We are only calling your attention to the fact that we have the Goodyear agency.

MOVE MADE TO IMPROVE HIGH SCHOOL GROUNDS.

BOARD WILL HAVE SPRINKLING SYSTEM INSTALLED.

At the meeting of the High School Board, Friday afternoon of last week, a motion prevailed to install a sprinkling system for the entire Main street frontage of the grounds, extending back as far as the rear of the buildings, and also for the construction of a cement driveway south of the main building, 30 feet wide, extending to the rear of the structure.

This move will be good news for the public, as there has long been need of improvements surrounding these public buildings.

The school trustees are to be congratulated upon their enterprise in taking up this neglected question, and it is hoped that in a short time the grounds around the High school buildings will reflect credit upon those in charge of school affairs and the community which they represent.

HOW GROCERY PRICES ARE REGULATED

SINCE the establishment of the Grocerteria, cash buyers that formerly traded elsewhere are buying their groceries at home, because they can buy as cheaply here as anywhere in Orange county. Why not join the army of cash buyers that deal at the store where every one pays their grocery bill? Compare our prices with credit store prices.

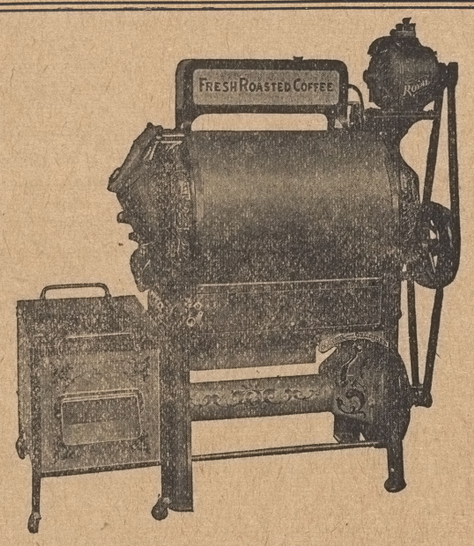

Do not ask for best brand of articles, but ask for Bishop's products, Armour's Veribest, and Globe Milling Co.'s A-1 products.

"ARSENE LUPIN" HERE SATURDAY EVENING

"The Fighting Trail," Second Episode, Sunday Night.

"THE GARDEN OF ALLAH" FOR WEDNESDAY EVENING.

The story of "Arsene Lupin," which Vitagraph releases as a Blue Ribbon feature, with Earle Williams in the title role, offers the feminine players innumerable opportunities to wear exquisite gowns and wraps.

Both Ethel Grey Terry, who plays opposite Mr. Williams, and Billie Billings avail themselves of these opportunities, and, consequently, appear on the screen continually gowned in most attractive clothes.

An afternoon suit worn by Miss Terry is fashioned from a dark green chiffon broadcloth, while the bottom of the three-quarter coat, cuffs and large collar are formed of black fox. Her hat is a medium size, with a lighter green beaded ornament in front, and a silver cloth band about the crown. With this stylish costume, Miss Terry wears white kid gloves and a sheer chiffon waist of a delicate green.

At the same time, Billie Billings wears a long motor coat of a deep maroon material, with brown fur collar and cuffs. Her hat is a soft brown straw, with satin flowers forming the trimming, which is hardly discernible under her maroon motor veil.

The afternoon dress, which this cloak covers, is a black taffeta, while the yoke and sleeves of the waist are fashioned from exquisite black lace and bound at the wrist by bands of the stiff taffeta. The skirt, which falls from a crushed panne velvet girdle, is plain and rather short.

An evening gown is made with simple lines, yet it is most effective. The waist, which is very low, is formed entirely from silver iridescent beads, and shirred a bit above with silver tulle, while the short, full skirt is fashioned from orchid chiffon, with a satin band of silver here and there. The dancing slippers are silver cloth, with orchid silk stockings and silver embroidery.

Covering this very attractive French model is an opera cloak of American beauty panne velvet, with wide collar and cuffs of black fur. The cloak is made very full with the sleeves inserted by a cording of the velvet. It is lined with a dull gold satin, which shows through slits in the velvet even when the wrap is closed. Over her head, when she wears this wrap, Miss Billings throws an American beauty tulle scarf.

This feature will be shown at the Princess theatre Saturday, February 16th. In addition, there will be a rough-house comedy, "Guff & Gun Play," and the Ford weekly.

"The Fighting Trail."

Carol Holloway, heroine of "The Fighting Trail," the great Vitagraph serial, appears in a dual role in the second episode, which will be shown at the Princess theatre on Sunday, February 17th. In one part she plays the role of a demure Virginia girl, and in another that of a daring Western girl, who rides and shoots with the skill of a cowboy. The two roles are entirely different, but to each Miss Holloway gives an artistic treatment that reveals her exceptional histrionic talent.

The second episode of "The Fighting Trail" is said by Manager Endicott of the Princess theatre to be even more thrilling than the first, in which William Duncan and Miss Holloway narrowly escape death, when her horse toppled over the edge of a cliff. In addition, there will be "The Vengeance of Durand," the comedy, "Father's Hat Band," and the Hearst Pathe weekly.

"The Garden of Allah."

Manager Endicott is surely offering a big attraction for Wednesday, February 20th. "The Garden of Allah," Robert Hichen's wonderful love romance of the great Sahara desert, will be presented for the first time in Huntington Beach. Wm. Selig's wonderful feature film dramatization of "The Garden of Allah."

Ever see a desert sandstorm? No? Well, by all means, see "The Garden of Allah," when a realistic Sahara sandstorm will be presented. We see the flying clouds, the day darken, then the eddies of wind continually gathering in force, until a veritable hurricane results. In the rain of sand, the man and woman journey forth to meet their fate. Helen Ware, the famous emotional actress, is given many opportunities for sincere and appealing work. Her wardrobe, purchased especially for this film drama, is valued at $25,000.00. "The Garden of Allah" was produced under the personal supervision of Wm. N. Selig, who has a series to his credit, notably, "The Spoilers," "The Rosary," "The Crisis," etc. Critics claim that "The Garden of Allah" is the greatest of all. At the Princess theatre Wednesday night, February 20th. Prices as usual.

P. E. RY. EXHIBIT AT ORANGE SHOW.

STRIKING EXHIBIT WILL REPRESENT RAILWAY.

The Pacific Electric railway is building a striking exhibit for the Eighth National Orange Show, to be held in San Bernardino February 20th to 28th.

In keeping with many other patriotic and war-time features, including a court of Southern California's most beautiful girls, who will represent the nation's allies, the Pacific Electric will have on a flat car a big naval gun, mounted on a revolving turret. Every time the turret revolves the gun will "boom," and a flash will be seen. "Pacific Electric serves Uncle Sam as well as Southern California" will be shown on electric decoration.

Thousands of oranges will be used in the display. A miniature train, winding in and out among oranges, will run about the base of the turret.

The Pacific Electric recognizes the Orange Show as one of the big attractions of Southern California, and during the period of the exposition will handle many thousands of people direct to the exposition gates from all parts of the Southland.

The Orange Show has already taken on such shape as to indicate that it will be equally as lavish in beauty and entertainment as in former years.

SOME MORE GERARD ARTICLES.

It is stated on excellent authority that Ex-Ambassador Gerard's second collection of inside information, regarding the intrigues of the German court and other hitherto unpublished facts, will throw a new light on the world-war.

It is said that his new exposures will be more interesting than his original publications. It will be recalled that he made public last fall, not only the text, but the physical reproduction of dispatches in the Kaiser's own handwriting during the days Germany was mobilizing for the great war, but which did not reach the public of any country until Mr. Gerard resigned his official position, thereby giving an opportunity to publish his memoirs in accordance with diplomatic custom.

"THE FIGHTING TRAIL."

Episode 2—"The Story of Ybarra." At the Princess Theatre, Sunday, February 17th.

Von Bleck walked hurriedly back to his office, donned his hat and coat, and strode out, leaving the others in the inner office, conferring. That could mean nothing until they heard from their superior.

Ten minutes later, Von Bleck was walking into the building in which was located the office of John Gwyn. He had, mapped carefully out in his mind, a proposition with which he intended to startle the young engineer. It was a proposition which would make Gwyn independently wealthy for the remainder of his life—and all that would be necessary for him to do would be to cancel the cinnabar contract.

As he passed through the revolving doors and walked toward the elevators, a crowd was surging toward the street. One of these, a young, stalwartly built young man, who carried a suit case, fairly rubbed arms with the agent of the Central Powers. It was John Gwyn! Neither took particular notice of the other, they having never previously met. Gwyn went through the door to the street, and Von Bleck entered the elevator, to be driven upward to the former's office.

"Is Mr. Gwyn in?" he inquired of the secretary, as he entered.

"I'm sorry, sir," was the reply, "but Mr Gwyn just left a few minutes ago for an indefinite stay in the West. He was just in to clear up a few matters and left with his suit case. Is it something important? Perhaps I could help you. He has left me in charge, and—"

"It is important," Von Bleck broke in, "and I can see no one but Mr. Gwyn. When does his train leave?"

"He goes on the Limited tonight," was the reply.

* * *

Von Bleck was about to leave the office, when his eye caught sight of a picture hanging on the wall in the outer office. He walked over to it casually and scrutinized it. In the foreground was a young man, pipe in mouth, roughly clad in mining attire. Behind him was a stretch of typical mining country.

"Is this your employer?" he questioned.

"That is Mr. Gwyn," the secretary answered.

Von Bleck took another careful look at the picture, and, thanking the young man, left the office.

Again in the street, he sought the nearest telephone booth and called the office.

"Gwyn leaves for the West tonight on the Limited," he told his confreres over the wire. "I shall be on the same train. I shall keep in touch with you while I am gone, and, in the meantime, you attend to any other matters that may come up during my absence. As soon as I am able, I shall wire you my address. I may need that five million before I get back."

The Limited was rattling over the rails toward the West with a speed that was astounding. Outside it was already dark, and the lights along the roadbed shot by so fast that they resembled sparks flying up a hearth chimney from blazing logs below. In the smoking compartment at the end of the car, John Gwyn sat, perusing some papers. The portieres parted and Von Bleck entered. He drew a cigar from his pocket and asked Gwyn for a match. The latter silently accommodated him.

"Pretty long and lonesome trip," the Central Powers' agent commented. Gwyn nodded. He was apparently in no mood for striking up acquaintances. But Von Bleck persisted.

"I'm going out to Frisco," he said. "Maybe you're bound for there, too. My name's Von Bleck; it's nice to know someone on the train."

"My name is Gwyn," the young engineer responded, glancing up from his papers, and fearing that he might appear impolite by avoiding conversation. "I'm not going to Frisco, though. I'm on my way to a place called Lost Mine, in the wilds of the Sierras. Barstow is my getting-off point."

* * *

Late that night, when the sleeper was black with darkness, except for the fleeting rays of lights along the track that shone but for the briefest fraction of a second as they passed the ends of the car, a shadowy figure, clad only in a dressing gown, quietly and cautiously emerged from one of the berths. It moved rapidly along until it was outside of Gwyn's compartment; then bent over and peered in. A little pocket flash-light suddenly illuminated the car and revealed, had anyone been awake to see it, the dark features of Von Bleck. He covered the end of the light with his hand to dim its rays, and put it between the curtains. Gwyn was sleeping soundly. Von Bleck watched him for a moment to see that he was not aroused by the light, and then, satisfied on that score, reached across his body to a half-opened suit case resting in a rack near the window. Slowly and carefully, so as not to awaken its sleeping owner, he lifted the suit case from the rack and hurried back to his own berth.

For a quarter of an hour, Von Bleck, in the seclusion of his sleeping compartment, studied the contents of Gwyn's bag. A small packet of letters, which had been tucked carefully at the bottom, held his attention the longest. For the most part these were of a personal nature, and contained nothing of interest to him, but finally one caught his eye. It was postmarked "Lost Mine," and was addressed in a flourishing Spanish hand. He opened it.

> Dear Mr. Gwyn: Am shipping your last order tomorrow. You need have no fear of the supply becoming exhausted for some time. When am I to be honored by a visit from you? I trust before long.
>
> Faithfully yours,
> CARLOS YBARRA.

Von Bleck smiled with triumph as he read the letter. It was the same smile that had played about his lips when he had met with his associates earlier that day. He folded the paper noiselessly and replaced it in the envelope. Then, as if realizing the length of time which he had kept Gwyn's suit case, he put the packet of letters back into the bottom of the bag and stole cautiously down the aisle to Gwyn's berth. A glance assured him that its absence had not been noticed. The young engineer was still sleeping heavily. He had been thoroughly tired by the strenuous events of the previous day and his hasty departure. It required but a moment for Von Bleck to lay the suit case back on the rack near the window, where he had found it, and to hurry back to his own berth.

Gwyn arose early the following morning, dressed, and used several articles from his bag. He did not notice that it had been tampered with. In the wash room he met Von Bleck, who was attending to his toilet, and nodded to him. The latter returned the salutation and watched keenly from the corners of his eyes to see if Gwyn should appear the least bit suspicious that his belongings had been ransacked. He was greatly relieved to learn that he was not.

Early on the fourth day after leaving New York, the Limited drew into the little Western town of Barstow, at the foot of the great range of Sierra mountains. John Gwyn, his bag packed and his wraps on, was ready to alight and start on his important mission. As soon as the train came to a stop, the young mining engineer jumped lightly from the platform and proceeded to the local hotel, which was located a short distance from the depot. As the Limited chugged again, starting on the last lap of its journey to the West, Von Bleck, who had been watching alertly from his seat for Gwyn to depart, jumped from his seat. He darted to the door, suit case in hand, and whispered into the porter's ear, slipping a crisp bill into his hand at the same time. The colored worthy grinned knowingly, and nodded. With a jerk he threw open the vestibule door on the side opposite the station. Von Bleck stepped down, grasped the handrail of the car, and swung out. The train was moving rapidly now, and the jump was perilous. The car was quite a distance past the station. Von Bleck took one glance at the ground flying by underneath the train, sprang into the air, and went sprawling to earth.

* * *

Don Carlos Ybarra trudged up the last few steps to the summit of the mountain beneath the burden of two heavy wooden cases, which he bore upon his shoulders. They were a heavy load for one so old as the rugged Spaniard, but he was strenuous and energetic, and his muscles were hardened by years of rustic living in the West. His gray hairs were no symbol of feebleness. Don Carlos was a man, and sturdy, and would be until the end. As he reached a clump of bushes beside the footpath on which he was walking, he paused to look suspiciously about for a second, and then parted the shrubbery, revealing the entrance to a spacious cave. He tore his way through the bushes, allowing them to close behind him, deposited the two cases among many more that were hidden in the dark corner of the cavern, and came out again. Once more he looked carefully about him, as if to satisfy himself that no one had been observing his actions, and then started to walk toward a little hacienda several hundred yards away, which served as his mountain dwelling. Precisely at the moment that he turned his back, two glaring eyes, filled with hate, appeared from behind the undergrowth, but a few yards from the cave's entrance. It was "Shoestring" Drant, a human coyote, ever stalking Don Carlos.

464 OCEAN AVENUE

THE FIGHTING ENGINEERS.

By H. Yarley.

[In French Edition, Chicago Tribune.]

We dug up husky mountains by the roots;
We spanned the rushing torrent with a bridge;
We laid the rails to guide the steam-charged brutes
That fed the men and guns at Cambrai Ridge.
We built a road through slush and soupy mud,
While dodging shells the German "minnies" sent;
We did the job and saw that it was good—
And then we heard another call—and went.
The pick and shovel dropped from every hand;
We didn't even notice where they fell;
We crawled or climbed or ran in No Man's Land,
To bring back tortured souls from worse than Hell.
And then the Germans came—we had to fight;
With something near to joy we grabbed the guns;
For this we'd waited many a day and night,
To send our deadly greeting to the Huns.
With British Tommies we stood face to face
With Death—and counted it the Chance
Of all—to be with them in that red place;
To live and fight and maybe die for France.
So shot for shot, and ball for ball we gave,
From trench and shell-hole till the fight was won;
Then we came back, each from his living grave—
Save those whose living fighting days were done.
So, when the story of the war is told,
Let one small chapter tell our little tale.
Say that we helped the thin first line to hold—
That when the Big Test came we did not fail.
But do not call us "heroes"—do not give
For those who died "out there" your futile tears;
But, smiling proudly, let their names still live
Upon the Roll—the Fighting Engineers.
